PRODUCT SALES ~ LICENSING & ADVICE FOR PROFESSIONALS

It has come to my attention that a number of professionals in the field of counseling, such as mentors, family therapists, psychologists, social workers, life coaches and so forth ~ are now interested in moving their focus into the investment world.

The investment world is comprised of unique individuals and organizations ~ unique in the sense that they have a specific mindset which is key to their creating and maintaining consistency in their investments, whether trading futures, equities, stock or currencies or any other markets. Most traditional counselors, mentors, coaches and therapists are not necessarily familiar with those in the investment world, and therefore may find interaction with them challenging.

Furthermore, I have received a number of requests from individuals considering this change in direction with their practices, wanting to purchase all my products in order to learn the "ins and outs" of the investment world. Although I am flattered that someone may think my material has merit ~ just reading or listening to my work would not necessarily bring about the type of knowledge that a more traditional counselor would need to address the challenges of traders. That would be virtually impossible for someone who has never traded, or been involved in the investment world for many years. And in essence would be a disservice to traders seeking their assistance.

Therefore, I am now offering business advice to those counselors, therapists, coaches, mentors, etc., who are thinking about working with traders. This way they will understand, based on my expertise and years in the industry, how to provide the most positive and productive services to traders.
